

Deep in the Purple Worm

a one page dungeon for 2012

In the dark ages of this world that followed the fall of Khan Bakhusaba of Bershamel horrors crawled upon the world as the demiurges themselves were revolted at the pride of the humanlings who thought to question the might of the Vile Ones. The magus Hi Xaphon of the Turalian order took it upon himself to save the Teshites from the worm that tormented them. He climbed into its maw and turned its magick heart into stone, paralysing and eventually petrifying the whole beast. In later years a dark magus enamoured of the dark arts took residence there and became himself a plague upon the Teshites. Where are latter day heroes who could save the poor benighted serfs and peasants from this malefex?

