

SOUL FIRM

The town of Greenbury has become tangled in demon bureaucracy and is bound by contract to sacrifice one child per month. They want out and will give anything for someone to stop by the local soul firm and knock some demons around.

Red three horned demon is looking to get hired as security... and build it's resume with dead adventurers.

Cultist with a tentacle coming out of his mouth and wrapped around his neck who represents the old god Ohaogest and is trying to trade ogre souls for human souls.

Demon adorned with spikes will trade souls for magic items.

Succubus receptionist will calmly give directions to any office.

Demon smoking a pipe will gamble souls for magic items.

3 outsourced goblins are cleaning up acidic blue blood.

5 demon interns are trying to calculate how long it takes a soul to leave a body, and need some adventurers to experiment on.

Unmoving elf with blank eyes next to a bottle containing it's soul. 3 potions of soul steal are here.

The manager of the facility is a goat headed monstrosity with 4 arms and hooved feet. He wears reading glasses and has a baby skull mug on his table. Will explain that he is actually doing the villagers a favor by eating their children, if he didn't provide protection then their town would be overrun by trolls.

The Assistant Manager of the facility is a fanged woman with the lower body of a snake who makes sure each department is doing it's job.

The heavily runed door protects 340 souls and can be opened by a key kept in the manager's desk.

A demon with huge tattered wings is looking to hire a security team who accepts 2 souls/month as payment.

3 swordsmen who gambled their souls and bodies away stand guard.

2 merfolk are transferring a 10ft sea serpent to the manager's office.

A demon covered in erratic eyes is calculating the value of souls gained minus assets traded or lost.

MAGIC ITEMS

Soul Steal Potion

If the liquid enters an entity's body their soul will be transferred into the vial.

Gold Staff

Can turn spilt blood into gold.

Demon Drink

Those that drink this will grow demonic wings.

Servitude Crown

Wearer has a chance to make one entity at a time serve them.